

Lessons for Living

“...If anyone keeps my word, he will never see death.”

(John 8:51)

We know that sooner or later, every person will die physically. The cemeteries scattered around the towns and countrysides bear witness of this fact. What did Jesus mean, then, when He said that those who keep His word would never see death? Was that a lie? No! He was talking about a death that is far more serious and awful than physical death. He was talking about spiritual death—eternal separation from God. Jesus said that if we keep His word—that of believing in and trusting Him (John 11:26), then we will have eternal life. Have you placed your trust in Christ and Christ alone for eternal salvation?
